Grits set sights on teachers', doctors' pay

Ontario budget. Minister Deb Matthews says she is standing up for taxpayers by nixing salary increases

Mired in debt and at risk of an election by late May, Ontario's minority Liberal government took dead aim at teachers and doctors Thursday in a bid for public support to keep their wage hike demands to zero.

Education Minister Laurel Broten warned elementary teachers of 10,000 layoffs unless they accept a pay freeze, while Health Minister Deb Matthews told physicians "I am here to stand up for taxpayers."

There is no room in Premier Dalton McGuinty's latest budget — which forecasts a $15.2 billion deficit this year — for salary increases, Matthews told a hastily arranged late-afternoon news conference.

"This is a tough time. This is a difficult budget," Matthews said shortly after Broten delivered her second stern message since Monday, when she slammed the elementary teachers' union for walking away from provincial bargaining.

The five-month-old government's future hangs in the balance over the budget, which goes to a crucial confidence vote in the Legislature by April 25. Defeat would force an election by the end of May.

Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario president Sean Hammond said the government's "destructive" demands ask "too much of teachers and singles them out" in a bare-knuckled political play that will harm students.

Added Ontario Medical Association president Dr. Stewart Kennedy: "The number one priority for Ontario's doctors has and continues to be patients." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Former Leafs captain cleared of drunk driving

Trial. Rick Vaive explained his behaviour stemmed from 'fatigue brought on by two days of golf (and) a two-hour drive'

Former Toronto Maple Leafs captain Rick Vaive was cleared of drunk driving charges Thursday after a trial that shone a spotlight on intimate details of his life and medical history.

Vaive's sluggishness the night of his arrest could have been due to other causes, such as fatigue, said Justice Anne-Marie Hourigan, who found there wasn't proof beyond reasonable doubt his ability to drive was impaired by alcohol.

Though breathalyzer tests showed the retired NHL player was well past the legal limit for blood alcohol, several factors — including delays in taking the tests and Vaive's testimony — cast doubt on the results, she told a Newmarket, Ont., court.

Vaive, who wore a charcoal grey suit and striped pink tie, wouldn't comment on the verdict, but defence lawyer Calvin Barry said it was a happy end to an emotionally difficult trial.

Rick Vaive
RICK MADONIK/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

"Rick's very happy, it takes a lot of pressure off his shoulders," he said outside court. "He was very, very upset through this whole ordeal."

The 52-year-old was arrested on July 14, 2009, while driving home from a golf game in Gravenhurst, Ont. The game was part of a two-day trip with several other hockey players, including Dennis Maruk and Bill Derlago, who testified for the defence.

Police pulled him over in Vaughan, just north of Toronto, after someone called 911 to report erratic driving.

He was charged with impaired driving and driving with over 80 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood.

Court heard the arresting officer noted Vaive described as fumbling with his documents and swaying on his feet while walking to the cruiser.

But footage of Vaive at the station showed he "at no time is observed to be stumbling or swaying or off-balance," evidence Hourigan said "speaks for itself."

Vaive became the first Maple Leaf to score 50 goals in a season, recording 54 in 1981-82. He went on to surpass the 50-goal plateau the following two seasons.

Rooster crows over graffiti rule

Graffiti at Rooster on Broadview Avenue. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

With their flamboyant good looks and strutting ways, roosters tend to attract attention. Usually, that's a good thing.

In the case of Riverdale's Rooster Coffee House — an attractive and much-loved hub of the neighbourhood on Broadview Avenue, north of Gerrard Street — it's also garnered the attention of local graffiti vandals, who kept drawing tags on an exterior laneway-facing wall of the two-storey building.

Last month, a city by-law officer dropped by and warned Rooster staff that the two tags currently on the wall had to be removed in 60 days, or the city would do it and charge the costs back to the owner.

Shawn Andrews — who co-owns the popular coffeehouse, which arose in late 2009 out of the former site of a rundown variety store — says she intends to comply with the city's order, but questions its effectiveness.

To date, she's spent hundreds of dollars removing tags. "We started by covering a small, single tag, and every time it has returned it has been larger ... closer to the street, more visible. And the last time it attracted the attention of a second tag. We decided to leave it the last time because we were concerned that we would attract even more vandalism."

The current two tags on the dark charcoal wall are not even particularly noticeable, and she wonders why the city is bothering.

"We have a building that has been vandalized — it's part of living in the city."

Police lay spicy charge in break-in to restaurateur's car

Vigilante justice. Owner of Bloor Street eatery has also been charged for attacking another alleged thief

An arrest has been made in a well-publicized case involving a Toronto restaurant owner charged with attacking an alleged thief with masala spices.

Police said Thursday they have charged a man with breaking into the car of Naveen Polapady last August. During the Aug. 17 break-in, a cellphone, iPad, camera and laptop were stolen. Polapady's GPS had earlier been stolen from his car.

Four days later, on Aug. 21, Polapady says he saw someone trying to break into his car and went after the man using what he had in his hand — masala spices — throwing them in the face of the alleged thief. He then went after him with a broomstick.

The man was sent to hospital and interviewed, but police didn't charge him due to lack of evidence.

Instead, Polapady was charged with assault causing bodily harm, assault with a weapon, and administering a noxious substance (the spices).

The man arrested for the car theft is not the same man Polapady attacked with the spices four days later.

The case attracted widespread media attention, debate and even a call from the Prime Minister's Office, offering the restaurant owner's family moral support.

A bill is making its way through Parliament that could change the outcome of cases like these. Bill C-26, now in its second reading, aims to expand the citizen's power of arrest and clarify the rules around defence of home and property. It has been dubbed the "Lucky Moose" bill after the Toronto Chinatown grocery store owned by David Chen, who similarly went after a shoplifter.

Review. TCHC scrutinized over Regent Park condo sales

A prominent former judge will probe whether executives of city-owned Toronto Community Housing Corp. received preferential benefits when they bought condos in a TCHC-affiliated Regent Park development.

The Cole St. condos were purchased from a company half-owned by the TCHC and half by a private development firm, The Daniels Corp. The joint venture was formed to turn Regent Park, the massive housing project, into a vibrant mixed-income community.

The review, to be led by former Ontario Superior Court chief justice Patrick LeSage, will look at TCHC's actions and those of Daniels executives who purchased condos to determine if there was any conflict of interest or appearance of a conflict. The TCHC executives are former chief executive Derek Ballantyne and former chief financial officer Gordon Chu.

At TCHC's request, former city integrity commissioner David Mullan assessed the situation and strongly argued that it would be improper to accept any discount. But he said it would be perfectly acceptable for the employees to buy condos on the same terms as ordinary residents.

Ballantyne said he paid full price, more than $200,000, and had not received special treatment.

Ballantyne, who lost his job at Build Toronto last year in the wake of a spending and procurement scandal related to his tenure at the TCHC, said he had bought the unit in part as a statement of confidence in the revitalization project.

Daniels vice-president Martin Blake said he did the same, and that he and other company executives paid full price.

The TCHC's board had asked LeSage to review the purchases in the wake of a critical series by Toronto Sun columnist Sue-Ann Levy, which also questioned the purchase made by the Coun. Pam McConnell, who denied any conflict of interest and said she paid full price.

LeSage's review will not address McConnell's purchase, the TCHC said.

Markham. Mixed evidence in camp lawsuit: Defence

The defence for the Town of Markham and five former camp counsellors in a lawsuit over a lewd game allegedly played at a town-run camp is "totally inconsistent" with public and private admissions made by the mayor, says the lawyer behind the suit.

"Any court that hears the evidence of the mayor and that hears the evidence of the children is going to find that there were major problems," said Toronto lawyer Justin Linden.

Two families of campers who attended Camp Chimo last summer filed a lawsuit in February against the town and the counsellors involved in the oversight of the Voyageur program after the alleged lewd game had pre-teen campers sucking toes and pole dancing to earn an ice-cream treat.

When the incident was publicized by the Star in November, Markham Mayor Frank Scarpitti confirmed the game took place last July and involved 38 campers. At the time, he said: "Through our investigation that we conducted initially, we discovered a range of those activities did in fact occur and we took the issue very seriously."

When questioned further, the mayor admitted the "activities" were as described by the parents who had come forward.

Of the game, the mayor also said: "At the end of the day, the fact is that the incident that the counsellors were involved in is unacceptable and isn't being tolerated."

But a statement of defence filed March 20 claims the game did not take place as described.

In the statement, the town claims its employees provided "appropriate supervision" to campers and both the town and counsellors deny "any breach of duty, want of care or negligence" for anyone who they were responsible for by law.

The town also denied it had failed to properly screen, supervise and train counsellors, but has since completely revamped all summer camp programs and revised counsellor training and hiring. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Rafferty obsessed with Stafford news stories, court told

Testimony. Former companion says Rafferty talked about child abductions

Michael Rafferty
DAVE CHIDLEY/THE CANADIAN PRESS

In the days following Victoria Stafford's disappearance, the man accused of killing her was "constantly checking the news" about the story, court in London heard Thursday.

Michael Rafferty's trial is hearing from a long string of former girlfriends and female friends, many of whom were seeing him around the time of Tori's April 8, 2009, death.

Sarah Hodge testified that she met Rafferty on the dating website Plenty of Fish and first met him in person on April 14, 2009.

Hodge said Rafferty talked with her about kidnapping children, saying how abducted kids can grow up thinking their abductors are their parents.

He was always checking newspaper and TV reports about Tori's disappearance and claimed to have "inside information" on Tori's mother, Tara McDonald, she said.

Hodge said that at the time there was no back seat in Rafferty's car.

The back seat was gone when police arrested Rafferty in May 2009, and various people have testified about seeing it in the car at points throughout the spring of that year.

But it remains unclear whether it was there on April 8, the day Rafferty allegedly kidnapped Tori in his car with Terri-Lynne McClintic.

Court heard Wednesday from an expert witness that traces of blood found in the back of Rafferty's car almost certainly belonged to Tori.

Anniversary getting little attention

The Harper government says it will mark the 30th anniversary of the patriation of the Constitution — by issuing a couple of news releases.

Heritage Minister James Moore says he will commemorate the Constitution's birthday next week by releasing a statement, as will the federal Justice Department. The Prime Minister's Office says there are no plans to hold a formal event.

The Tories' approach differs greatly from Liberal party plans to mark the occasion with a rally featuring former prime minister Jean Chrétien.

The Constitution was patriated on April 17, 1982, under the watch of then-Liberal Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Manitoba to appeal assault sentencing

Graham James.
Victims of sexual abuse by ex-hockey coach applaud appeal

Graham James arrives at court in Winnipeg Tuesday.
JOHN WOODS/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Victims of Graham James say Manitoba's Justice Department is doing the "right thing" by appealing the two-year sentence handed to the former hockey coach who sexually abused two of his teenage players hundreds of times.

James was sentenced last month for sexually assaulting former NHL star Theo Fleury and his cousin, Todd Holt, when they played for him in the Western Hockey League in the 1980s and '90s. The sentence, handed down by Winnipeg Judge Catherine Carlson, prompted widespread outrage from both James's victims and the public. Under the sentence, James could apply for parole and be released by the end of the year.

Holt said he had mixed emotions because he thought the James case was closed. But he said, overall, he's happy the sentence is being appealed.

"I think this is a decision made by all of us, every person out there who thought that the two-year sentence was awful," said Holt in an interview. "It was an embarrassment. It was a travesty. If people are trying to correct that, it would be great."

Even if the appeal isn't successful, Holt said it sends an important message to other child molesters and victims.

Students killed after truck crashes into Mexican bus

Emergency responders stand next to a passenger bus that was struck by a transport truck on a busy highway on the outskirts of Mexico City, Thursday. The bus was carrying students from the National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM) headed to do field studies. At least six students and one professor were killed. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Budget cuts. Crime agenda weakened: Union

The Conservatives' tough-on-crime agenda is weakened by federal budget cuts, the union representing border guards said Thursday.

Union officials say chopping $143 million from the Canada Border Services Agency budget over the next three years will hamper its ability to catch child pornography, drugs and terrorists at the border.

The cuts represent more than 1,300 jobs, including intelligence officers and front line agents, the union said.

Cracking down on sexual offences and illegal drugs has been a key focus for the Conservatives, as has border security.

When they were elected in 2006, they increased the number of officers by 400 and since then they've added a further 1,600 new positions, according to figures provided by Public Safety.

Registry. Lift long-arm data, lawyers argue

Federal lawyers were set to argue in a Montreal courtroom Friday that an injunction protecting long-arm registry data should be lifted.

A Quebec Superior Court justice agreed last week to order a delay in the deletion by Ottawa of registry data originating from Quebec. The ruling came after a request by Quebec's Charest government. It means Quebecers are still obliged to register their weapons and that the registry data for the province will be preserved and maintained.

Federal lawyers claim the injunction is unnecessary because they say there will be no destruction of documents until at least August. The bill to end the federal long-gun registry received royal assent last week and became law everywhere but Quebec.

Quebec has said it wants to conserve the long-arm data for its own provincial registry.

Social issues heat up Alberta election debate

Election. Abortion funding among the hot topics of the Alberta election campaign candidates debate

Conservative leader Alison Redford and Liberal Leader Raj Sherman take part in a debate during the Alberta Election Leaders Debate in Edmonton on Thursday. JASON FRANSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Alberta's leaders debate heated up Thursday when Wildrose Leader Danielle Smith reiterated she has no plans to legislate on abortion and again hammered at Premier Alison Redford, accusing her of fear-mongering on the issue.

Smith, who just recently revealed she is personally pro-choice, has been fighting fears that the social-conservative wing of her party would use new citizen-initiated referendum rules to overturn contentious issues such as public funding for abortion.

During the debate, she insisted her party will nevertheless support citizen-initiated referendums because it is a way for citizens to have a say.

"It's nothing but fear-mongering by a government that is on the run and worried about its opposition and competition," Smith charged.

"The reason it has come up is because the Wildrose has talked about doing it — it's part of their party platform," Redford retorted. "Three weeks ago, we heard from this leader that her personal views didn't matter. Then we heard that she would take her marching orders from her party. Then we heard that her caucus was important, then we heard her own personal views.

"I will tell you that in our view, a Progressive Conservative view, everyone in our caucus, takes the view that these matters have been settled. They do not need to be raised again."

But Raj Sherman of the Liberals said Redford has no moral authority on the subject because her government has sanctioned the bullying of doctors.

NDP Leader Brian Mason said that in the United States, such referendums allow special interest groups to impose their views on the majority.

"The Americanization of our political system that the Wildrose prefers with citizen-initiated referenda and so on allows special interests to hijack the political agenda, because it is not usually the citizen themselves, the ordinary person."

Smith has also come under fire for her party's position on so-called conscience rights — the concept that public workers should be allowed to opt out of their sworn duties, such as performing abortions or marrying gay couples, if the work runs counter to their religious or moral beliefs.

Halifax front and centre in Titanic

100th anniversary. Titanic-themed cruise ship stops in Halifax to visit graveyard containing 121 victims of the disaster

It wasn't Deborah Franklin's first visit to the final resting place of 121 of Titanic's victims, but this time was different.

"It's very solemn and a time to reflect," said Franklin of Midland, Texas, standing in front of a row of unmarked graves at the Fairview Lawn Cemetery on Thursday.

Franklin said she's always been interested in the story of the Titanic.

In fact, she made a trip to Halifax last October to visit the same grave site.

"But it just seems different this time," said Franklin, one of 440 passengers of a Titanic-themed cruise ship.

The Azamara Journey, which left New York earlier this week, brought hundreds of passengers from around the world to the region Thursday as part of its journey to the Titanic's watery grave on its 100th anniversary.

Halifax is inked in the ship's itinerary because of its role in the aftermath of the disaster. Many of the people who died when the Titanic sunk are now buried in Halifax.

People young and old walked through the graveyard this week, snapping photos and carrying umbrellas.

Colourful flowers and stuffed animals could be seen at the base of several graves, most of which had no names but bared the date of the Titanic's sinking: April 15, 2012.

For Frank Birmingham, it's the victim's unknown stories that brought him aboard the cruise.

"They couldn't identify these bodies because of the time period," said Birmingham of Florida, pointing to the unmarked graves.

"No one knows who they are." ALY THOMSON/FOR METRO

Memorial service

The ship will set sail again Friday and will continue on to conduct a memorial service at the spot in the Atlantic where the Titanic sank. Along the way, passengers will listen to lectures about life on board the ship.

- The Journey is one of two cruise ships that are part of commemoration of events marking the 100th anniversary of the legendary ship's sinking.
- The Titanic left Southampton, England, bound for New York in April 1912.
- More than 1,500 passengers and crew died when the vessel struck an iceberg and sank.
- Because so many victims are buried there, Halifax will be forever tied to the disaster throughout history.

Deborah Franklin of Midland, Texas, walks through the Fairview Lawn Cemetery in Halifax, where 121 victims of the Titanic rest.

Halifax. Cruise passengers visit graveyard

ALY THOMSON
For Metro in Halifax

A grey sky and light rain provided a fitting backdrop for Roberta Lingua's visit to the Fairview Lawn Cemetery in Halifax on Thursday, the final resting place of 121 of Titanic's victims.

It was the Hollywood blockbuster that turned the 22-year-old Italian woman's attention to the disaster, but it has since developed into a fascination with the actual event.

"When you see the movie, you fall in love with Jack and Rose," said Lingua, who traveled from Italy to New York to set sail on a Titanic-themed cruise.

"But it's a very true story and it's very emotional. It was a tragedy."

Lingua was one of 440 cruise ship passengers on the Azamara Journey, which docked in Halifax on Thursday as part its journey to the ill-fated ship's ocean grave.

The city will be front and centre this weekend, as Halifax is slated to host a number of events marking the 100th anniversary of the Titanic's sinking on April 15, 1912.

The region played a central role in the disaster as bodies that were recovered at sea were brought to the city, which became the final resting place for more than 100 victims.

On Saturday, a candle-lit procession will be held at the Maritime Museum of the Atlantic to commemorate those victims.

A horse-drawn carriage with a period-style casket and pallbearers will lead the procession. On Sunday, the day the ship sank, a Titanic spiritual ceremony will be held.

JetBlue captain indicted by grand jury

A JetBlue Airways captain accused of disrupting a Las Vegas-bound flight when he left the cockpit screaming about religion and terrorists has been indicted, according to court documents posted Thursday.

A grand jury in Lubbock, Texas indicted Clayton F. Osbon on one count of interference of a flight crew — the same charge he's been held on since shortly after the March 27 incident.

Osbon's attorney, Dean Roper, declined to comment.

Witnesses on Flight 191 say Osbon ran through the cabin yelling about Jesus and al-Qaida.

The first officer locked him out of the cockpit and passengers wrestled the captain to the floor. They restrained him with seat belt extenders and zip tie handcuffs while the first officer diverted the flight to land in Amarillo.

Osbon is undergoing a court-ordered psychiatric exam to determine whether he was legally sane and can stand trial.

Under federal law, a conviction for interfering with a flight crew can bring up to 20 years in prison. The offence is defined as assaulting or intimidating the crew.

Mexico, Cuba rekindle strained friendship

Felipe Calderon and Raul Castro meet. Leaders agree to co-operation in the petroleum sector, sign pact to work together

Mexico's President Felipe Calderon.
FRANKLIN REYES/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mexican President Felipe Calderon said Thursday that his brief visit to Cuba was a "re-encounter" between two nations whose long history of friendship has hit some bumps in recent years.

The morning after meeting with Cuban President Raul Castro and other top officials, Calderon said the two men discussed co-operation in the petroleum sector.

Oil officials from the two countries signed a non-binding letter of intent to work together.

State-run Petroleos Mexicanos will "evaluate the possibility of participating and investing in the exploration and exploitation of hydrocarbons in Cuba in the blocs adjacent to Mexico's exclusive zone," Calderon said.

They also agreed to boost sporting and health exchanges, and discussed Mexico's opposition to the 50-year-old U.S. economic and financial embargo against Cuba.

"These have been two extraordinary days for Cuba and for Mexico in that their mutual affection has been rediscovered," Calderon told reporters in Cuba.

The Mexican president continues on a tour that will take him to Haiti and a regional summit in Colombia.

Calderon's six-year term ends later this year. He said in 2006 that he would improve troubled ties with Cuba, but his trip was delayed until now.

In 2009, Fidel Castro alleged that Mexico was holding back information about the swine flu outbreak.

The following year the former Cuban leader suggested that Calderon had actually lost his 2006 election to leftist Andres Manuel Lopez Obrador.

Daughter held in Mexico

Father says Ottawa hasn't done enough to help

The father of a Canadian woman charged in Mexico for allegedly trying to smuggle Moammar Gadhafi's son into the country says Ottawa just hasn't done enough to help his daughter.

John McDonald says he understands that Canada can't really interfere with another country's laws, but he says Ottawa can't ignore what he calls "civil rights violations" in the case.

He says Canada wasn't informed of his daughter's incarceration until she was behind bars for four days and she was held without being charged for longer than Mexico's laws allowed.

Muzzle. Free-speech group announces award winners

The Thomas Jefferson Center for the Protection of Free Expression announced Thursday its "Muzzle" awards.

The centre in Charlottesville, Va., bestows the Muzzles annually to mark the April 13 birthday of its namesake, a free-speech advocate and the nation's third president.

Centre director Josh Wheeler says several of the 2012 winners earned their Muzzles for engaging in viewpoint censorship, which the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution prohibits.

Florida Gov. Rick Scott and the state's legislature won its Muzzle for adopting a National Rifle Association-backed law that largely prohibits physicians from asking patients about firearms in their homes or discussing gun safety.

The U.S. State Department won a Muzzle for disinviting a Palestinian political cartoonist from a government-sponsored conference that was to highlight, ironically enough, the importance of free speech and freedom of the press.

A professor at Sam Houston State University in Texas was cited for cutting the "f-word" from a university-approved "free-speech wall," on which students were invited to express themselves by writing on the wall's parchment paper.

A full list can be found at the website of the Thomas Jefferson Center for the Protection of Free Expression at tjcenter.org.

Zimmerman appears in court on murder charge

Pretrial. Man accused of second-degree murder in fatal shooting of teenager Trayvon Martin

George Zimmerman, centre, stands with a Seminole County deputy and his attorney, Mark O'Mara, during a court hearing on Thursday in Sanford, Fla.

GARY W. GREEN/ ORLANDO SENTINEL, POOL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Neighbourhood-watch volunteer George Zimmerman made his first court appearance Thursday on a second-degree murder charge in the shooting death of Trayvon Martin.

His hair was shaved down to stubble and he had a thin goatee, which appeared consistent with his booking photo from the day before.

He had resurfaced Wednesday to turn himself in after weeks in hiding.

Judge Mark E. Herr said he found probable cause to move ahead with the case and that an arraignment would be held on May 29 before another judge.

The prosecutors must prove Zimmerman's shooting of Martin was rooted in hatred or ill will and counter his claims that he shot Martin to protect himself while patrolling his gated community in the Orlando suburb of Sanford.

Zimmerman's lawyers would only have to prove by a preponderance of evidence — a relatively low legal standard — that he acted in self-defence at a pretrial hearing to prevent the case from going to trial.

Martin's parents expressed relief over the decision to prosecute the person who shot their son.

"The question I would really like to ask him is, if he could look into Trayvon's eyes and see how innocent he was, would he have then pulled the trigger? Or would he have just let him go on home?" said his father, Tracy Martin.

Many attorneys said they had expected the prosecutor to opt for the lesser charge of manslaughter. The most severe homicide charge, first-degree murder, is subject to the death penalty in Florida and requires premeditation — something all sides agreed was not present in this case.

"I predicted manslaughter, so I'm a little surprised," said Michael Seigel, a former federal prosecutor who now teaches law at the University of Florida. "But she has more facts than I do."

Mark O'Mara, Zimmerman's attorney, said his client would plead not guilty and invoke Florida's so-called "stand your ground" law, which gives people wide latitude to use deadly force rather than retreat during a fight.

The confrontation took place in a gated community where Martin was staying with his father and his father's fiancée. Martin was walking back in the rain from a convenience store when Zimmerman spotted him and called police. He followed the teenager despite being told not to by a police dispatcher and the two got into a struggle.

Argentine 'miracle' baby in critical condition

An Argentine newborn who survived nearly 12 hours in a coffin in a morgue after hospital workers gave her up for dead is in critical condition, showing a series of complications common among infants born three months premature, a doctor said Thursday.

Tiny Luz Milagros, or "Miracle Light," is suffering from sepsis and convulsions along with signs of neurological damage, said Dr. Diana Vesco, neonatology chief at the Perrando hospital in Resistencia. She said the baby is on a ventilator and being treated with antibiotics.

Her mother, Analia Bouter, said she got a supportive call from President Cristina Fernandez on Wednesday asking to see the baby once she's out of intensive care.

That could be a while. Luz Milagros faces a "risk of death commonly associated with her weight and gestational age at birth," said Vesco. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Korean rocket crashes into the sea

Long-range missile. Washington, Seoul say highly controversial launched missile broke up shortly after takeoff

Defying international concerns, North Korea fired a long-range rocket early Friday, but it appears to have fallen into the sea, splintering moments after takeoff, South Korean and U.S. officials said.

The liftoff took place from the west coast launch pad in the hamlet of Tongchang-ri, South Korea's Joint Chiefs of Staff in Seoul said, citing South Korean and U.S. intelligence.

The two countries as well as many others had warned against the launch, calling it a provocation and a cover to test missile technology.

North Korea had insisted it would not back down, and said the rocket would only carry a satellite, touting it as a major technological achievement to mark the 100th birth anniversary of the country's founder, Kim Il Sung, on Sunday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Walmart Canada to take on discount competition

Retail giant also planning Canadian store expansion in advance of Target's arrival early next year

More products for $1 are coming to Walmart Canada as the retailer takes on dollar stores, Target and the country's biggest grocers in a strategy to win a larger share of the retail market.

Executives from the company met with analysts and the media in Toronto on Thursday to discuss its answer to the entry of U.S. rival Target and an expansion by Canadian dollar store operator Dollarama.

The plan includes lowering the prices of more items to about a loonie, said Shelley Broader, the retail giant's Canadian president and CEO.

"That's in direct reaction to what our customers need and want, but it happens to be a nice method of competing against the dollar stores," she said.

Walmart's supercentres aim to do exactly that, offering customers deals on everything from dish towels to dry-cleaning services. The price reductions are part of a strategy of "cementing ourselves in the minds and hearts of Canadians as one-stop shopping," said Broader.

Dollarama has been encroaching on the discount retailer's low-priced territory, expanding its products beyond small items worth a loonie. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cash crunch. Royal Bank opting to raise some fees

As debt-heavy Canadians become more cautious about borrowing, the banks are looking to raise fees to make up for the shortfall.

Royal Bank, Canada's largest bank, is the latest to announce it is raising a number of fees, including the rate it charges for credit-card cash advances.

The new fees, which affect everything from personal banking to business accounts, become effective June 1, RBC said in a brochure mailed to clients.

The move reflects the increased costs of doing business, the bank said.

The main impact of the RBC announcement will be on customers who pay monthly services fees on their everyday bank account, known as RBC's Signature No Limit Banking account. Those fees will rise to $14.95 a month from $13.95.

Interest rates on credit card cash advances will rise to 21.99 per cent from 19.99 per cent.

Seniors will pay a higher annual fee to carry certain kinds of RBC Visa rewards cards. For example, the annual fee for the RBC Rewards Visa Preferred card will rise to $110 from $70.

At least two other banks, BMO and TD, have also raised their fees in recent months.

Bombardier wins legal battle

Bombardier has won a legal victory in its battle with a business-jet customer, with the Supreme Court of Canada refusing to hear an appeal filed by the buyer of a $47-million aircraft.

The court said it has dismissed a request by Eagle Globe Management to overturn a June 2011 ruling by the Quebec Superior Court.

Bombardier sued the U.S.-based company after it refused to take delivery of the completed Global Express XRS aircraft in 2008. Bombardier disputed Eagle's claims about deficiencies, saying they were mainly cosmetic in nature. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lockout isn't winning any critical acclaim from the Reel Guys, but it'll leave you grinning. HANDOUT

Lockout a solid 'B' effort

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Cranked-up camp. Action flick is a good time if you can look past the silly dialogue, '90s era special effects

Richard: Mark, I had a good time at Lockout even though I'll be the first to admit it isn't a very good movie. The special effects look like rejects from 1997, the tough-guy dialogue sounds like Bruce Willis castoffs and it's not nearly as violent as I would have expected it to be, but I sat there with a grin on my face. How is this possible? Perhaps it reminded me of those cheeseball direct-to-DVD Dolph Lundgren movies I used to watch when I rented everything at the video store.

Mark: The movie has one great thing going for it: the ace wisecracks delivered by Guy Pearce with impeccable sang-froid. The only problem is that he's so funny it undercuts any of the supposed action sequences. And did you notice the similarities to John Carpenter's Escape From New York? When Maggie Grace cuts her hair and dyes it black she even looked like Adrienne Barbeau!

RC: That is, I think, what I loved about the movie. It seems like a time capsule from another time. It has its flaws — like being set in 2079 and yet making contemporary references like Prince, John Wayne and global warming — but the old school-ness of it is appealing. It's not a remake, or a reboot but it feels familiar nonetheless.

MB: I thought it was wonderfully lazy filmmaking that in the future the iPhone was exactly the same, as were the guns and clothing. It's a B movie to be sure. But it has its pleasures. I enjoyed the over-the-top performance of no-name actor Joseph Gilgun as an unhinged convict. It's the part Giovanni Ribisi was born to play, if the movie had a budget.

RC: Exactly! I thought he was an excellent bad guy except I felt like I needed a translator to explain his HEAVY brogue to me. I certainly caught the gist of what he was saying but often the actual words were lost on me. Perhaps mumbled, accented dialogue is the new cool thing. Apparently Bane in The Dark Knight Rises is impossible to understand as well, but I like a bit more clarity from my bad guys.

MB: Richard, maybe incomprehensibility is the new scary. All those werewolves and zombies have set the bar pretty high for inarticulate rage. After all, you can't reason with someone you can't understand.

J.K. Rowling set to release book for adults

She may not be able to match the phenomenal success of the Harry Potter series, but J.K. Rowling has high hopes for The Casual Vacancy, her first novel for adults. The title was announced Thursday by Little, Brown & Co. along with a brief plot synopsis for the book. The publisher said it will be available worldwide on Sept. 27. The effort will mark Rowling's first post-Potter effort. The new book, aimed at a grown-up audience, will be set in a seemingly idyllic English town called Pagford.

Cabin in the Woods probably isn't the movie you think it is. The audacious high-concept thriller marks the directorial debot of Cloverfield writer Drew Goddard who takes the horror stereotype and brilliantly flips it. Though the premise of co-eds heading out to the woods and inadvertently uncovering zombies seems familiar, it's only a ploy. To reveal more would spoil the surprise. Instead, just enjoy the madness of this masterpiece. STEVE GOW

The Three Stooges

Directors. Bobby Farrelly, Peter Farrelly

Stars. Chris Diamantopoulos, Sean Hayes

If there's one film with a built-in audience, it's The Three Stooges. They're so cherished by the Farrelly Brothers, the filmmaking siblings crafted a straight-up reimagining of the legendary comic trio. While the performances are bang-on, the three-episode arc and story is so slight, it can hardly be considered a plot. Still, if three knuckleheads poking each other in the eyes to cartoonish sound-effects cracks you up, this is cinematic gold. STEVE GOW

Drama

StreetDance 2

Directors. Max Giwa, Dania Pasquini

Stars. George Sampson, Sofia Boutella

This energetic and slightly surreal sequel to the unexpected hit StreetDance takes place in a Paris crawling with aspiring teenaged dancers; the cliched story and characters are just a framework for some energetic, highly physical dance numbers that gain little from the 3D format. The film's sense of fun is occasionally infectious, but more often the tone is just silly — perfect for 12-year-olds who want to ogle the lithe, attractive cast. ADAM NAYMAN

Drama

The Deep Blue Sea

Director. Terence Davies

Stars. Rachel Weisz, Tom Hiddleston

The film opens with Hester Collyer (Weisz)'s botched suicide following the crumbling of relationships with her husband and lover. The resentment that seethes out of each character, aided by fantastic performances, makes the film jump off the screen. IAN GORMELY

Drama

The Hunter

Director. Daniel Nettheim

Stars. Willem Dafoe, Sam Neill

Willem Dafoe plays a professional hunter hired by a biotech company to track down and kill the last remaining Tasmanian Tiger. The Hunter feels like two movies. The better one focuses on Dafoe's existential man-against-tiger journey. RICHARD CROUSE

Documentary

Happy People: A Year in the Taiga

Directors. Dmitry Vasyukov, Werner Herzog

Stars. Werner Herzog (narrator)

Ever wondered what it takes to survive in the Siberian wilderness? For the people of Bakhtia, a small village in the Siberian Taiga, surviving is a full-time job. Werner Herzog narrates this compelling documentary. REGAN REID

Documentary

Girl Model

Directors. Ashley Sabin, David Redmon

Stars. Nadya, Ashley Argaugh

By combining behind-the-scenes footage and intimate interviews, Girl Model exposes some ugly truths. It will open your eyes to the many different sides of the fashion industry. REGAN REID

Drama

Keyhole

Director. Guy Maddin

Stars. Jason Patric, Isabella Rossellini

Canadian surrealist Maddin goes digital (letting go of his usual 16mm trademark) but doesn't sacrifice a shred of his vision in Keyhole, a haunting, visually informed work of bizarre, muted power. CHRIS ALEXANDER

Music

Hard Core Logo 2

Director. Bruce McDonald

Stars. Adrien Dorval, Care Failure

To paraphrase Senator Lloyd Bentsen, "I knew Hard Core Logo, and sir, Hard Core Logo 2 is no Hard Core Logo." Instead it is a wonderfully heated examination of obsession, media and the march of time. RICHARD CROUSE

Chimpanzee. Jane Goodall hopes new film will spark children's interest in animals and nature

scene@metronews.ca

Being in the presence of Jane Goodall, it's easy to become inspired to embark on some kind of save-the-world project.

After all, Goodall — a woman who set out to study animals in Africa in 1960, when she was just 26 years old — has turned a childhood obsession with animals into a world-renowned career studying chimpanzees, and a global conservation institute bearing her name.

"When I was a little girl of 10 … I fell in love with Tarzan and was furiously jealous when he married that other Jane," she jokes while in Toronto, helping Disney promote its film Chimpanzee, which opens next Friday. Chimpanzee follows the true story of an orphaned chimp named Oscar.

While Goodall was not directly involved with the production of the film, she knew the crew. "I think the amazing thing about this film is that we know Disney, we know Bambi, and this film itself ... might have been scripted by somebody doing a chimpanzee Bambi."

But the storyline was anything but scripted. In fact, the initial plan was to follow the life of a chimp — who the crew named Oscar — and observe him develop in his community. When Oscar's mother suddenly died, the crew panicked. "They thought the whole film was destroyed … [that they had] wasted six months filming a chimp who's [all but] dead," said Goodall.

Lucky for Oscar (and the film crew), the top-ranking male in the group of chimps was a bit of a softie under his gruff exterior and took the young chimp under his care. "I cannot believe how this all unravelled" says Goodall.

Today, between being a UN messenger of peace and educating the world about the plight of chimpanzees, Goodall, 78, spends 300 days of the year on the road, raising awareness about conservation issues.

Goodall has also helped develop a program called Roots & Shoots that now has thousands of young members in over 130 countries. Through this program, young people are encouraged to take on grassroots conservation projects. "Children are getting more and more divorced from nature," says Goodall. "How can you protect something if you don't understand?"

Goodall says that films like Chimpanzee are a first step in educating children about nature. "Films like this help kids understand that there are creatures out there who are so like us and hopefully children will come away thinking about that and thinking about little Oscar as though he's a cousin."

Anthropomorphism

Human-like?

Anthropomorphism is giving human characteristics to animals, something that Goodall has been criticized for in her study of chimpanzees. But Goodall feels that it's better to over-anthropomorphize and believe animals are more like us than to think that we are completely different. "What really peeved me was that scientists were ready to take a chimpanzee because biologically they're so like us, sharing 99 per cent of our DNA and … subject them to all kinds of nasty medical procedures … and they even used them to learn about depression … but when it came to them sharing an emotion, like being happy or sad, [the scientists] said 'absolutely not.'"

Gabrielle Union. Actress channels her inner bad girl and 'thinks like a man'

Gabrielle Union and Jerry Ferrara star in Think Like a Man. HANDOUT

Gabrielle Union has dazzled us on both the big and small screens for almost 20 years. From the tough-talking, no-nonsense cheerleader Isis in Bring It On to the scheming daughter of the beloved and bitchy Wilhelmina Slater on television's Ugly Betty, she's pretty well nailed being a woman in control.

She's been "the girl who's got it all figured out and somehow can't find a man, or the girl from the right side of the tracks with the boy from the wrong," as she puts it. And her recent shifts in character are refreshing, albeit surprising, as we start to see a little "bad girl" emerge from one of the good girls.

In the recent Tyler Perry's Good Deeds, Union played Natalie, the perfect fiancé to the staid and stoic Wesley Deeds — perfect, that is, until she hits the clubs for a night out with her BFF and gets herself unabashedly sloshed. Now, in Tim Story's hilarious Think Like a Man,"Union takes it a step further as Kristen, a woman forced to do exactly what the title suggests in order to get her boyfriend of nine years to propose. And part of that "male thinking?" Sprawling out on the bed smoking a bong and talking, of all things, existential time travel with her man.

While she laughingly refers to her own history as a "person who really enjoys a good time", according to Union, assuming these character traits is all part of "reality" and something that, in Think Like a Man, she and co-star Jerry Ferrara "fought for" during filming as an important aspect to their on-onscreen relationship. "With some couples, this is reality," she says. "You might get a little drunk with your girlfriend. You might smoke a spliff with your man and talk about time travel. Every couple has to decide where's the line in the sand. What are you willing to deal with or not deal with? In their relationship, weed was part of it. Obviously in my real life it is not."

Viewing the scene as one that gives the audience a sense of "why these two have been together nine years", authenticity was important to both Ferrara and Union. And just how authentic was it? "We really wanted the smoke to be seen so you got what was happening," she lets on. "It was authentic smoke."

Heartburn Reflux

The USDA now recommends to eat 50% alkaline food (vegetables, legumes, salads, fruit). Health professionals suggest 80% alkaline food. Unfortunately, North American people eat 90% acidic food (meat, noodles, rice, bread, pastries, sweets, junk food). If you cannot change your diet to USDA's 50% or closer to 80% alkaline food, consider to supplement with a natural health product that helps to increase your pH alkaline level close to a healthy #7. Ask for Bell Acidic Stomach/Alkaline Balance #39. It's inexpensive, has no side effects and may eliminate the need for anti-acid pills many people take. As a bonus, an alkaline balanced body prevents many illnesses. See guarantee printed on box.

■ Reflux gave me a sore throat and I could not sing in the church choir anymore. After taking Bell #39 I have no more reflux and rejoice in singing again. Helene Giroux, 65, Quebec, QC ■ Have family history of heartburn. For last 10 years I suffered a lot with acid reflux. I told all family members about #39 being all natural, giving quick relief and having no side effects. Michael Fashesh, 49, Port Flanch, CA ■ Very happy with acid reflux relief. Last 4 years had increasing reflux despite taking anti-acid products. I am also trying to eat more alkaline food. Grzegorz Smirnow, 43, Mt. Prospect, IL ■ Suffered with reflux, choking and coughing. After starting Bell #39 I #39 feel great. Amazed about the complete relief. Thanks from the bottom of my heart. Katarina Tusa, 63, North York, ON ■ Was sleeping sitting up to avoid reflux. I thought I had this health problem for life like my other family members. Bell #39 brought quick relief. Can sleep now normally, have more energy, feel great. Bell products are quite different. Virginia Grant, 67, Markham, ON No need to make claims. CONTROL WEIGHT = CONTROL BLOOD SUGAR

By Dr. Chakib Hammoud, M.H.,PhD.

Long term weight control without controlling blood sugar is destined to fail. This is why we have an epidemic of obesity. How it works: Stops the "roller coaster" of cravings and appetite to eat foods like sugar and starches that cause high blood glucose levels, which then brings on your pancreas to automatically pump insulin into your blood stream. Subsequently the high level of insulin precipitates low levels of blood glucose and cravings for more sugar and starchy carbohydrates (breads, noodles, crackers, cereals, french fries) which you don't need and therefore it goes into unwanted fat storage and being overweight. Experts now recognize these basic facts.#40 Bell Blood Sugar Imbalance helps to stop this vicious cycle and puts you in control. Dr. Hammond says this natural product works 10 times better because it reprograms our brain and pancreas to release insulin in a controlled manner. Helpful non-fattening eating suggestions in the box. Fibers and exercise like walking are beneficial and help after you control the underlying basic blood sugar imbalance.

■ Working in a health food store I heard people saying how well #40 works. I tried it myself. Finally a product that controls my blood sugar much better than anything else we had in the store. Thank you for helping people around the world. Irene M. Urdiales, 43, Boynton Beach, FL ■ My medical indicated pre-diabetic. I took #40. When re-tested readings were fine. This helped my metabolism and my weight is down 25 lbs. I am grateful to the health food store people for their advice. Michael O'Brien, 60, Rothergien, ON ■ I finally found the right approach to losing weight. I tried for 3 years to lose weight. After starting #40 my blood sugar is stable now. I was able to stop overeating and lost my excess weight. Sara John, 40, Kitchener, ON ■ I was struggling for 15 years with weight gain in spite of diet and exercise. I was diagnosed as pre-diabetic. I will forever be grateful to the store manager that explained to me to take #40 and read suggestions to avoid fattening foods. I lost 70 lbs. My fasting blood sugar is now 92. My 2 hour post meal glucose level is now 92 as well. My new shape raised my self-esteem and gave me immeasurable peace of mind. Karen Maples, 55, Clarksville, TN ■ Diabetic eliminated high blood sugar levels with #40. My readings were 140 to 200 and are now 99 to 122 range where I want it to be. Before I bought about 10 different supplement that were more expensive and didn't work as well. I also lost some weight. A great improvement in my health and daily living. Roger Light, 57, Fort Lauderdale, FL. Skeptics may call anybody. All real people with honest statements.

William Landay's New York Times Bestselling Legal Thriller

A suspenseful, character-driven mystery that is also a spellbinding tale of guilt, betrayal, and the terrifying speed at which our lives can spin out of control

Andy Barber has been a respected assistant district attorney for more than twenty years. But when a shocking crime occurs, Andy is blindsided by what happens next: His fourteen-year-old son is charged with murder.

"The hype is justified...exceptionally serious, suspenseful, engrossing." —The Washington Post

"With a grabby premise and careful plotting, [Landay] keeps you turning the pages through the shocking gut-punch of an ending." —Entertainment Weekly

Induction ceremony.
Hall of Fame set to give it away now to Chili Peppers

Anthony Kiedis had a dream the other night.

The 49-year-old frontman of the Red Hot Chili Peppers imagined that he was playing at this year's Rock and Rock Hall of Fame induction ceremony, and the band's on-again, off-again guitarist John Frusciante was sitting in the front row.

Kiedis is quick to note that this vision won't become a reality when the 29-year-old group is actually inducted Saturday.

"No," Kiedis said in a hushed tone during a break from rehearsing at SIR Studios last month. "That was just a dream."

The current line-up of Flea, Kiedis, drummer Chad Smith and guitarist Josh Klinghoffer will be honoured along with past bandmates like late founding member Hillel Slovak, the original Chili Peppers guitarist who died of a drug overdose in 1988, and Frusciante.

Welcome Guns N' Roses back to jungle?

International music.
Classic rock band set to be inducted into Hall of Fame as lead member pans the invite entirely

PAT HEALY
Metro World News

Guns N' Roses is known for its inter-band civil wars as much as the classic music its members made together.

It has counted as many as 21 people as official players through the 27-year history of the group, but many rock fans are penning open letters across the web for a reunion of the band whose members were once so well known as individuals that they had their own mass-produced pinball machine.

They are also well known for their cynical approach to press — so when Metro caught up with keyboardist Dizzy Reed, who joined the band in the early '90s, shortly before the Use Your Illusion albums, he played it predictably close to the vest when asked about the upcoming proceedings.

So what do you know about the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame?
Rock and Roll Hall of Fame? Um, it's in Cleveland.

Do you know what's going to happen with the induction into the Hall? There are rumours there will be a reunion of the original lineup.
I haven't gotten any details. I spoke with the people of that institution. They gave me a call and told me to mark it on the calendar, to be there. As far as the details of what's going to happen, I haven't received any sort of itinerary or schedule. It's something I'm just trying not to think about until it gets closer. It's not that I don't appreciate it. It's a great thing, and it's great for all the people who supported the band over the years.

I understand that you're still friends with everybody who has been in the band through the years, is that right?
Friendly, I'd say. I haven't talked to a couple of the guys at all since they left. But Duff [McKagan, original bassist] got up and jammed with us in Seattle and Vancouver last year.

And you've been immortalized, by making it onto the Guns N' Roses pinball machine as well ...
Yes I did. I'm on the pinball machine, and I can't remember what it was that triggers it, but you can get the Dizzy ball, and it starts going crazy and you can score a whole bunch of points. I think it was patterned after me after too many vodkas or something.

No awards please

Thanks but no thanks

- Letter. In a 1,000-plus word open letter to the Los Angeles Times, Guns N' Roses singer Axl Rose has said he will not be attending Saturday's event, nor does he even want to be inducted. Lena Headey plays Cersei Lannister on Game of Thrones CONTRIBUTED

Fight for the Iron Throne continues

Games of Thrones. Hit fantasy show renewed for another season. Now the question remains: who will rule Westeros?

AMBER RAY
scene@metronews.ca

HBO announced the pickup of its hit fantasy drama Game of Thrones, chronicling the struggle of several families to rule the fictional continent of Westeros, on Tuesday. The renewal comes in the wake of the series' record ratings when Season 2 premiered earlier this month.

"Series creators David Benioff and D.B. Weiss raised our expectations for the second season — and then surpassed them," Michael Lombardo, president, HBO Programming, said in a statement.

"We are thrilled by all the viewer and media support we've received for the series, and can't wait to see what Dan and David have in store for next season."

The drama, based on George R.R. Martin's Song of Ice and Fire series of fantasy novels, has so far followed the one-book-per-season format — Season 1 brought to life the series' first book, A Game of Thrones, while Season 2, currently airing Sundays at 9 p.m. on HBO, tells the story of A Clash of Kings.

Season 3 is expected to follow the story of the third book, A Storm of Swords. But according to Entertainment Weekly, producers Benioff and Weiss would prefer to slow things down. "As George and all his fans have said for a long time, there's no way to do [Swords] in a single season, so it's being broken into two," Benioff said in a recent interview with EW.

"We're still kind of figuring out exactly what goes where. We don't want it to feel like a two-part season," Beinoff said. "From the beginning we'd always prayed we'd get to Season 3 at least because, you know, two of our favourite scenes from the entire saga are in Season 3."

Breaking up Season 3 would also give Martin more time to finish the series' source material. The Song of Ice and Fire series is meant to include seven novels. The fifth installment, A Dance with Dragons, was published in 2011; Martin is still in the process of writing the sixth book, The Winds of Winter.

Krysten Ritter is The B— in Apartment 23

Mean girl. Ever wondered what it would be like to live with the love child of Sid Vicious and Lucille Ball? Now you can find out

AMBER RAY
scene@metronews.ca

Though harsh to refer to your main character as a b–, there really is no other way to describe opportunist Chloe (Krysten Ritter) in the new ABC sitcom Don't Trust the B— in Apartment 23. Chloe herself boasts of having the "morals of a pirate."

"If Holly Golightly and Satan had a child, it would be my character," says Ritter.

And James Van Der Beek, who plays Chloe's best friend has a slightly different view: "[She's] the love child of Lucille Ball and Sid Vicious."

No matter her mythical parentage, Chloe tiptoes the line between bad and just plain awful — in the pilot, she robs her sweet, new-to-New-York roommate, June (Dreama Walker) — which means the balance between audiences loving or loathing Ms. B is even more precarious.

But Ritter rationalizes that Chloe's actions, despite how outlandish they seem, aren't always selfish. "As long as I approach my character in making positive choices, that the end result seems to be somewhat heartfelt, you can get away with it," she says.

After all, even seemingly naive June is able to crack Chloe's tough girl persona and ultimately become a member of her oddball entourage.

"June definitely ... outsmarts Chloe a little bit," Walker says. "That's part of our dynamic and part of what makes her respect me and like me in the end."

So is the B-word a severe moniker after all? Ritter doesn't think so. "I'm an evil b—," she says.

Don't Trust the B— in Apartment 23 airs Wednesday nights on Citytv.

'Pushing the envelope'

B doesn't just stand for broadcasting at ABC.

- Explanation. The network uses the letter as an abbreviation for "bitch" in the title of its new Wednesday night sitcom Don't Trust the B—in Apt. 23.
- Trying to be provocative. Branding expert Dorie Clark says the B's aren't meant to be sexist or denigrating, but to get people talking and, ultimately, to get ratings
- Clark's take. Producers and executives protect themselves by not spelling out the B-word: "They're trying to be provocative to push the envelope and still manage to make it acceptable when it comes time to be listed in TV Guide."

Did Gibson put a hit out on ex-girlfriend?

Mel Gibson still has a lot of anger toward ex-girlfriend Oksana Grigorieva — and has threatened to have her killed, according to a nine-page letter from screenwriter Joe Eszterhas to Gibson that was leaked to the Wrap.

"'I want that c---- gone!' you screamed," Eszterhas recounts in the letter.

"'I'm going to get rid of her. No one will ever know! I'm not going to live this way the rest of my life! She's poisoning (my daughter) against me! She is evil! They worship the devil where she came from. She's going to disappear! Gone!'" Eszterhas also contends in the letter that the project they were collaborating on, The Maccabees, was scrapped because of Gibson's anti-Semitism.

"I've come to the conclusion that the reason you won't make The Maccabees is the ugliest possible one. You hate Jews," he writes. Gibson has responded with his own letter to Eszterhas, leaked to Deadline: "I will acknowledge like most creative people I am passionate and intense," Gibson writes, but counters that "the decision not to proceed with you was based on the quality of your script, not on any other factor."

Anthony files for divorce

After separating from wife Jennifer Lopez last July, Marc Anthony has finally made it official by filing for divorce, citing "irreconcilable differences," according to Hollyscoop.

Anthony is reportedly seeking joint legal and physical custody of their four-year-old twins, Max and Emma, and Anthony does not want to provide Lopez with any spousal support. The filing reportedly mandates that both parties pay their own legal fees as well.

The Word

Not quite a bed of Roses

PAT HEALY
scene@metronews.ca

Following speculation that there would be a reunion of the original lineup of Guns N' Roses at the band's induction into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame on Saturday, Axl Rose fired off an open letter to the Los Angeles Times, saying in no uncertain terms that not only was a reunion out of the question, but he doesn't even want to be inducted.

"I respectfully decline my induction as a member of Guns N' Roses to the Rock and Roll Hall Of Fame," he wrote in the 1,000-plus word letter. He then went on to "strongly request" that he not be inducted in absentia.

"Please know that no one is authorized nor may anyone be permitted to accept any induction for me or speak on my behalf."

OK, that certainly sounds like he's taking his ball and going home, doesn't it?

"No one's taking the ball and going home. Don't get it twisted," he wrote.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Oops, I guess we jumped the Gun there.

Rose's letter goes on to rant about the greed of the music industry, the irresponsibility of the media (hey, we retracted our ball-and-going-home allegation) and sincerely thanks the Hall of Fame and fans.

What it boils down to, "This decision is personal," he said,

It's only hard to begrudge Rose's decision because that original lineup not only sounded great, but there really hasn't been a cooler-looking group of dudes playing hard rock since the original lineup.

OK, maybe Velvet Revolver looked as cool, because Slash played in that band too, but they had no Paradise City.

Superfood

Bananas to stay strong

Bananas are a great source of energy and their high potassium content helps to maintain regular blood pressure and heart function as well as bone strength.

They also contain the amino acid tryptophan, essential in helping the body produce serotonin.

Known as the brain's very own sedative, serotonin has a calming effect on the brain and consequently helps to regulate mood.

Banana Loaf. The hint of vanilla will keep you coming back for more

DINNER EXPRESS
Emily Richards
food@metronews.ca

Banana loaf is perfect for an afternoon snack or part of your morning breakfast.

Warm it in the microwave for a fresh out of the oven taste then use it the next day for a very tasty french toast!

1. In a bowl, whisk together the flour, baking powder and salt. Then set these ingredients aside.

2. In a large bowl, beat the butter and sugar until fluffy. Beat in eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat in vanilla. Stir in mashed bananas and sour cream. Add flour mixture to banana mixture and stir to moisten. Add walnuts if using and stir to combine.

3. Scrape into 8 x 4 inch (1.5 L) loaf pan and bake in 350 F (180 C) oven for about 1 hour or until tester inserted in centre comes out clean.

4. Let cool in pan on rack. Remove from pan and let cool completely on rack.

Tips

- Flour. If you don't have both all purpose and whole wheat flours, simply use one throughout the recipe. You can also try the nutri-blend flour that has added bran.
- Storage. Wrap loaf whole or in quarters in plastic wrap and in heavy-duty foil, and freeze up to two weeks. Wrap loaf in plastic wrap and keep at room temperature for up to three days.

Hitting hot spots in the wine world

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell

Even though I've been to amazing places around the wine world, I'm still surprised at the number of obvious hot spots I've never seen in real life.

While travelling in Northern Italy this week, I finally found myself in Piedmont — home of high fashion, truffles and wines made with the nebbiolo grape. Sadly, nebbiolo rarely comes cheap with its two most famous offspring — the vino from Barolo and Barbaresco — commanding prices that start somewhere around $40 a bottle.

That isn't to say you can't drink Piedmont on a budget. Though growing in nebbiolo's shadow, barbera is the third most cultivated grape in Italy. Barbera typically produces balanced, fruit-driven wines with vineyards in the Piedmontese sub-regions of Asti and Alba, its preferred geography.

Though Asti is the same place the famous sweet sparkling wine comes from, Bersano's 2009 Costalunga Barbera d'Asti ($11.95 - $14.99) is a full-bodied, yet seductive red that, while nowhere near the weight of a Barolo, still commands a dark fruited presence in the glass.

I love this style of wine with earthier pasta sauces.

Banana Bread French Toast & Raspberry Maple Syrup. Breakfast

1. Raspberry Maple Sauce: In saucepan, bring raspberries and maple syrup to a gentle boil over medium high heat, stirring often.

2. In bowl, whisk the cornstarch with 1 tsp (5 mL) of water. Stir into raspberry mix and return to boil. Boil for 1 minute or until thickened. Remove from heat and keep warm.

3. In shallow dish, whisk eggs, milk and cinnamon. Dip banana bread slices into mixture to coat evenly. Place on lightly greased nonstick skillet or griddle over medium high heat and cook for about 3 minutes or until golden and turn over. Cook for about 4 minutes or until golden. Repeat with remaining banana bread and egg mixture.

4. Serve banana bread french toast with Raspberry Maple Sauce and dust with icing sugar. EMILY RICHARDS IS A PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST, COOKBOOK AUTHOR, TV CELEBRITY CHEF.

Brent Sutter out as Flames coach

The Calgary Flames are looking for a new coach.

Brent Sutter agreed to part ways with the NHL team after three seasons, according to a release from the Flames on Thursday.

The decision came after a meeting between Sutter and general manager Jay Feaster. Sutter's contract was due to expire at the end of June.

The Flames narrowly missed the playoffs in all three seasons under Sutter, compiling a 118-90-38 record overall.

Kings apologize, Canucks shrug off snarky tweet

The Los Angeles Kings say they're sorry, but the Vancouver Canucks contend they could not care less about a controversial tweet.

One day after opening a series against Vancouver with a 4-2 win, the NHL team found itself backtracking from a playful jab made on Twitter. In the wake of the victory, the team's official account posted a message saying: "To everyone in Canada outside of B.C., you're welcome."

That didn't sit well with senior members of the organization, especially after all of the attention it generated.

Rangers dispatch Senators in Game 1

NHL. Top-seed New York shakes off 1-2-1 regular-season record against Ottawa for win

Marian Gaborik and Brian Boyle scored minutes apart in the second period to break open a tight game, and the top-seeded New York Rangers opened their first-round Eastern Conference series with a 4-2 victory over the Ottawa Senators on Thursday night.

The Rangers, the No. 1 seed in the East for the first time since they won the Stanley Cup in 1994, shook off their 1-2-1 regular-season mark against the Senators and easily dispatched them in Game 1.

Ryan Callahan scored in the first period, Gaborik and Boyle pushed the lead to 3-0, and Brad Richards added a goal in the third for the Rangers. New York will host the No. 8 Senators again on Saturday night before the best-of-seven series shifts to Ottawa for Games 3 and 4.

Henrik Lundqvist was sharp early, stopping Jason Spezza on a partial breakaway and then turning aside Jim O'Brien, who weaved his way through the New York defence before getting off an in-close drive that was knocked away.

Lundqvist's only blemishes came in the third period. Daniel Alfredsson wrecked his shutout bid at 10:05, and Erik Condra made it 4-2 with 2:19 left. Lundqvist finished with 30 saves.

Craig Anderson stopped 27 shots, but it wasn't enough for him to maintain his perfect mark at Madison Square Garden.

Game 1

Rangers	Senators

The Senators dominated play throughout the second period, but a couple of late lapses turned a tight game into a virtual runaway.

Ottawa kept up constant pressure in the New York end. It just didn't produce any results. The Senators hemmed in the Rangers several times and forced a handful of icing calls. It got so bad in the middle of the second that New York coach John Tortorella was forced to use his lone timeout just to give his guys a breather after back-to-back icings.

Even with three straight power plays that spanned the first and second periods, the Senators were frustrated by either Lundqvist or players in front of him who dived to block shots from ever getting through.

The Rangers spent much of the two off days before the series opener working on their anemic power play. It didn't click late in the second, while Filip Kuba served a hooking call, but New York connected 13 seconds after the defenceman left the box.

NHL not happy with missed offside call

Danny Briere scores past Marc-Andre Fleury in Game 1 of the Eastern Conference quarter-finals Wednesday in Pittsburgh. JUSTIN K. ALLER/GETTY IMAGES

Colin Campbell feels the pain of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

The NHL's senior executive vice-president of hockey operations acknowledged Thursday that linesman Tony Sericolo erred in not whistling the play dead prior to Danny Briere's first goal in the opening game of the Penguins-Flyers series.

"There's no other way to explain it but a missed call," Campbell told The Canadian Press in an interview. "We're as upset as Pittsburgh, almost. It's a mistake."

Briere scored Philadelphia's first goal on Wednesday night after being sent in on a breakaway by teammate Brayden Schenn. The long pass came immediately after a neutral-zone turnover and replays showed that Briere was a couple feet offside.

The play started a big comeback for the Flyers, who erased a three-goal deficit and beat Pittsburgh 4-3 in overtime. However, the Penguins didn't use it as an excuse for their collapse.

"That's not why we lost the game," coach Dan Bylsma said after the game.

The blown call could affect how director of officiating Terry Gregson makes staffing decisions moving forward, according to Campbell.

"There's always fallout," he said.

A hard-fought series was expected between these Central Division teams separated by only two points over the 82-game regular season, and the Predators stoked the rivalry Wednesday with a 3-2 win marked by 17 combined penalties between the NHL's least-penalized teams.

Vitt takes over for Saints

NFL. Payton's 2nd-in-command named interim coach despite 6-game suspension

Sean Payton handed over control of his team to Joe Vitt once before and the Saints have decided to do it again.

The Saints Thursday named Payton's trusted second-in-command their interim coach, despite the fact that Vitt will miss a third of the season for his role in New Orleans' bounty system.

For his part, Payton received a season-long suspension which begins Monday. Vitt, who takes over Monday, was handed a six-game suspension.

Saints general manager Mickey Loomis said in his announcement that the team will address at a later time how to divvy up Vitt's responsibilities during his six-week absence.

"It is important that we keep Sean Payton's philosophy front and centre during this season," Loomis said. "Sean has been the driving force behind the tremendous success our team has enjoyed during the past six years."

Horoscope

Aries | March 21 - April 20. It may be Friday the 13th but don't be afraid to take a few chances.

Taurus | April 21 - May 21. You may be short of self-belief at the moment but your confidence will soar when you realize there is little, if anything, to fear.

Gemini | May 22 - June 20. Use the morning to get your thoughts together and make plans, then act quickly and decisively in the after noon hours.

Cancer | June 21 - July 22. Question everything you're told today — not just things that are suspect but even things you have no reason to be suspicious of.

Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. Being the nice guy you are, you tend to give people the benefit of the doubt. Today, don't risk your money on other people's promises.

Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. Do you knock off early or get as much work done as possible? Knuckle down now, then enjoy the weekend.

Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. Loved ones feel a little left out of things at the moment, so find out what it is they need from you and give it to them.

Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. Some tasks can be safely ignored today and some tasks need to be dealt with straight away.

Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21. Don't come across too eager on the work front today because that will make you look desperate and put you at a disadvantage.

Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20. Try not to let minor fears become major anxieties today. Be positive, and life will be positive too.

Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18. You seem to believe a simple problem must have a complicated solution. Stand back from the situation and see it for what it really is.

Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20. If you want to change your world for the better you have got to take action, and soon. SALLY BROMPTON

^Δ 48-MONTH INSTALLMENT PLAN ("Plan") offered through Dell Financial Services Canada Limited ("DFS"), a separate entity, to qualified customers approved by DFS in its sole discretion. Minimum transaction amount of $499 is required. No down payment required. Monthly payment set out in the ad is based on a Plan interest rate of 13.99% per year and an advance equal to the advertised price for a specific product configuration. Interest rates and monthly payments under the Plan will vary, depending on amount advanced and customer's creditworthiness. Representative example of a Plan: $999 advanced at 13.99% per year: $27.29 monthly payment, total payable is $1309.92, total cost of borrowing is $310.92. Please contact Dell for more details. NO INTEREST FOR 12 MONTHS ON ALL PREMIUM EVENT SYSTEMS ("Promo Interest Offer"), on approved credit (O.A.C.), subject to certain conditions. Offered through Dell Financial Services Canada Limited ("DFS"), a separate legal entity, to qualified customers approved by DFS in its sole discretion. Only available to customers outside Quebec who enter into a 48 month Installment Plan Agreement with DFS ("Plan Agreement") for qualifying advances for Premium Event system purchases from Dell from April 13 until April 26, 2012, 10 pm EST; not available on orders or financing entered into prior to this promotional period. For a full list of qualifying systems, visit www.dell.ca/nointerest. Interest rates and monthly payments under the Plan Agreement will vary, depending on amount advanced and customer's creditworthiness. Representative example of a Plan Agreement: $999 advanced @ 13.99% per year: $27.29 monthly payment, total payable is $1309.92; total cost of borrowing is $310.92. Pursuant to the Promo Interest Offer, interest charges accruing on an amount advanced under the Plan Agreement will be forgiven for a period of 12 months from the date of the initial advance (the "Period") IF the following conditions are met: (i) during the Period, the borrower makes each minimum monthly payment under the Plan Agreement by their respective due dates; AND (ii) prior to the end of the Period, the borrower repays in full the balance owing under the Plan Agreement. Failure to meet either of these conditions will negate the Promo Interest Offer and all terms and conditions of the Plan Agreement will apply, including interest charges, at the Plan Agreement interest rate, accrued and calculated daily from the date of the initial advance. Call Dell for full details. PRICES/ORDERS: Offers available only in Canada for specified time period. E-value™ codes are locator codes and are not coupon or discount codes. To locate the system with the advertised price please mention or input the E-value™ code. Savings calculated on regular price offered by Dell. Total Value of a bundle equals aggregate of the regular price offered by Dell on individual components; bundle savings represents difference between advertised price of bundle and Total Value. Prices do not include applicable taxes, shipping, handling, environmental, restocking and other surcharges. Information in this material subject to error, cancellation, change and substitution at Dell's discretion at any time without notice. Dell reserves right to cancel orders arising from any errors and to limit quantities to 5 systems per customer. Offers not combinable with any other offers or discounts (i.e. limit 1 offer per eligible system). Certain products, configurations, colours and/or patterns may be limited in availability. ERRORS: Prices, offers, configurations and any other information in this material is subject to error, cancellation, change and substitution at Dell's discretion at any time without notice. Dell is not responsible for typography, photography, pricing, posting or other errors. CUSTOMER TERMS AND CONDITIONS: All purchases are subject to Dell's Customer Agreement or Dell's standard terms of sale, Dell's limited hardware warranty terms and the applicable Dell or third party service agreement. Copies available on request or at "http://www.dell.ca" www.dell.ca AVAILABILITY: Certain products, configurations, colours and/or patterns may be limited in availability. SHIPS FAST: Systems are generally delivered faster than Dell's built-to-order systems. DELL'S RETURN POLICY: If you are the original purchaser who bought new products directly from Dell, you may return the products in as-new condition to Dell up to 30 days after you receive them for a refund of the product purchase price if already paid. The refund or credit does not include any shipping and handling charges shown on your packing slip or invoice; you are responsible for those. Some exceptions apply. For complete details, visit dell.ca/service contracts. Solution Station: To view important service information including a list of supported products or issues, see dell.ca/solutionstation. Please note that supported products or issues may change at any time without notice to customers. Phone-based troubleshooting and "how to" questions only; onsite assistance, repair services or parts are not covered. ACCIDENTAL DAMAGE SERVICE: Excludes theft, loss and damage due to fire, flood or other acts of nature, or intentional damage. Customer may be required to return unit to Dell. For complete details, see www.dell.ca/servicecontracts. MCAFEE SECURITYCENTER: This offer is only available when purchased at point of sale and is not available after you purchase your system. CD/DVD/BLURAY BURNERS: Discs burned with this drive may not be compatible with some existing drives and players; using DVD+R media provides maximum compatibility. GRAPHICS AND SYSTEM MEMORY SDRAM: Significant system memory may be allocated to support graphics, depending on system memory size and other factors. HARD DRIVES: GP means 1 billion bytes and TB equals 1 trillion bytes; actual capacity varies with preloaded material and operating environment and will be less. OTHER SERVICE OFFERS: Go to www.dell.ca/ for service agreement and details. Some services provided pursuant to a contract between customer and third party. MCAFEE SECURITY CENTRE: This offer is only available when purchased at point of sale and is not available after you purchase your system. BLUETOOTH: The Bluetooth word mark and logos are owned by the Bluetooth SIG, Inc. and used by Dell Inc. under license. BLU-RAY DISC: Blu-ray Disc and the blu-ray disc logo are trademarks of Blu-ray Disc Association. INTEL: Ultrabook, Celeron, Celeron Inside, Core Inside, Intel, Intel Logo, Intel Atom, Intel Atom Inside, Intel Core, Intel Inside, Intel Inside Logo, Intel vPro, Itanium, Itanium Inside, Pentium, Pentium Inside, vPro Inside, Xeon, and Xeon Inside are trademarks of Intel Corporation in the U.S. and/or other countries. MICROSOFT: Microsoft, Excel, Groove, InfoPath, Internet Explorer, MS, the Office logo, OneNote, Outlook, PowerPoint, Windows, the Windows logo, the Windows Performance Rating logo, Windows Server, Windows Vista, and the Windows Vista start button are either registered trademarks or trademarks of the Microsoft group of companies in the Unites States and/or other countries. © 2012 Microsoft Corporation. OTHER: All other trademarks are the property of their respective owners. © 2012 Dell Inc.
